Free Office Use

Lexington, Kentucky (August 4, 2009) Office Suites PLUS announces a plan to help displaced professionals. For someone who recently lost a position, Office Suites PLUS is offering to provide a shared office for up to 90 days – for no charge. This offer is only for individuals who have lost their job and are actively seeking new employment. A furnished office with a telephone and high speed Internet access will be provided as available during normal work hours.

Office Suites PLUS is a leading provider of full service office suites and virtual offices. The Company rents furnished private and shared office space, and provides a full range of telecommunications and business support services. Each location can be viewed as a one-stop source for corporations and individual professionals seeking a flexible solution to traditional office space, a home office and/or existing support alternatives.

The Company's President, James C. Baughman, Jr. says they just want to do what is right and help good people having a temporary bad time. Baughman said, "It is a tough time to be in business and even tougher to be without a job. This is one small way we can use our resources to help some get back on their feet."

Though most Office Suites PLUS clients are corporate, Baughman believes in the entrepreneurial spirit and is willing to put his money where his mouth is. He says, "If an individual tries us and after concluding a search decides to start their own company and use a furnished or virtual office, special rates will be extended as a way of us investing in their business to help them get started."

Office Suites PLUS currently operates over 35 locations in nine states. The Company provides office space for those who need it on a full-time basis, as well as virtual offices for those desiring all the services and amenities but without the need for a physical space. For typical office clients, standard features include a direct dial telephone number, personalized telephone answering services with company specific greetings and information, voicemail services, high speed Internet access, a fax line, use of meeting rooms and guest offices, and access to our other office suites. Additional services such as administrative support, use of copy machines, videoconferencing, overnight mail delivery and much more are available on an "as needed" basis. Those requiring a virtual office have access to the same services, only without the full-time office.

Traditional office clients for Office Suites PLUS include corporations that only require a limited number of employees in a market. These include area and regional offices; professionals providing training or support for a limited engagement; and companies looking to expand on a limited basis to a new market or downsize from larger, expensive space in an existing market. Virtual office clients ordinarily include small businesses and individuals working from home that want a professional image and related support services.
